CONFERENCE.

To Settle the Coal Strike Now Being Held in New York.

Senators Platt, Quay and Penrose, Governor Odell, and Others in attendance--John Mitchell Said to be Present--Reported Settlement of the Strike--News of the Situation.

New York, Oct. 9.—The conference which has been in progress since early this morning on the strike situation between Senators Platt, Quay and Penrose, Governor Odell and Edward Lauterbach, adjourned to meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. It is expected that President Mitchell and L. L. Hammerlin, secretary of the miners' union, will be present.

New York, Oct. 9.—Wall street is on the quivive to hear something definite and favorable regarding the strike at any moment. There were many rumors of settlement but they could not be traced to any authoritative source. They represented, though, the feeling of the financial district which is that a settlement is in sight and that how it will be brought about will develop before the day is out.

STRIKE REPORTED SETTLED

And That Miners Will Be Called to Work Monday.

New York, Oct. 9—(Bulletin)—A well known commission house in this city has received the following advice which is declared to emanate from a high authority: "All coal mines will issue a circular calling the men to work for Monday and will do their best to push the work of mining to the fullest extent."

BAER'S RESIGNATION.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—(Bulletin)—Some color was lent today to the widespread rumor of the forthcoming resignation of President Baer of the Reading Railway.

Mr. Baer this morning refused to discuss the subject with reporters while his secretary and usual mouthpiece, Mr. Oberteuffer, said: "Neither President Baer nor myself will have anything to say on that matter today."

STRIKER KILLED BY SOLDIER.

Shenandoah, Pa. Oct. 9—John Durham, a striker, was killed last night by private Wadsworth 18th regiment at the collieries near the town.

The guard was on outpost duty and challenged the strikker twice while the latter was within the line. Durham did not respond and was shot through the chest. He was claimed by fellow strikers and the body taken to his home at Brownsville.

Wadsworth, reported the matter to headquarters and surrendered himself. The officials believe an attempt was being made to dynaminte the camp. The shooting is the first charged to the militia.

BRIDGE BLOWN UP.

Tamaqua, Pa., Oct. 9—The bridge leading from the railroad to Slatery's Colliery at Tuscarora to main track of the Philadelphia and Reading track was blown up by dynamite and destroyed last night. The bridge was blown up to prevent the shipment of coal, which was contemplated this morning.

MITCHELL IN NEW YORK

Holds Conference With Pennsylvania Senators Wednesday Night.

New York, Oct. 9—President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' Association, arrived at the Pennsylvania Depot in Jersey City last night, having come on a Lehigh Valley train from Wilkesbarre, Penn. With him were District Presidents Nichols, Fahey and Duffy. Mr. Mitchell was asked if he had come to hold a conference with the operators, but he declined to say. He said:

"Information has been conveyed to me by phone that a total of 260 local unions have reported unanimous votes against resuming work. The men are not deterred from going to work through any fear of bodily harm but are resolved to remain out until the differences between them and the operators are arbitrated or until they are ordered to return by their leaders.

"This leaves not more than 40 or 50 local unions to hear from yet. The unanimous action includes the votes of strikers not members of the union, but who were present at the meetings and voted with the union men."

At 11 o'clock President Mitchell and two of the district Presidents went to the Fifth Avenue Hotel where Senators Quay and Penrose, of Pennsylvania, and Louis N. Hammerling, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., were stoppeing

President Mitchell's conference with Senators Penrose and Quay lasted for an hour and three quarters. At its conclusion Mr. Mitchell returned to the Ashland House. He declined to say a word as to his talk with the Senators, and the latter left word with the clerk of the Fifth Avenue Hotel that they would not see any one, instructing the clerk to refuse the cards of any persons who might wish to interview them.

QUAY AND PENROSE

Expected to Meet Mitchell in New York—Somepin' Doing.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9—The impression prevails here that United States Senators Quay and Penrose are still endeavoring to effect a settlement of the strike. The two Senators went to New York but declined to state the object of their visit. The hasty departure of President Mitchell of the Mine Workers' Union from Wilkesbarre for New York, and the fact that the Senators left here at about the same time, are regarded as signficant.

MITCHELL'S LETTER.

To Roosevelt Declining Latter's Proposition for Miners to Resume.

Washington, Oct. President Mitchell's letter declining to accept Pre. Rooseveit's offer to appoint a special commission to investigate the miners grievances and to do all in his power to carry out the recommendations of such a commission if the miners will return to work at once, was made public this morning.

Mr. Mitchell states that he appreciates the responsibility resting upon the miners but bearing in mind their experience with the operators in the past and in as much as there is no law to enforce the findings of the proposed commission he has to decline to advise a return to work simply on the hope that the operators might be induced or forced to comply with the commission's recommendations.

The text of the letter follows:

Hotel Hart, Wilkesbarre, Pa. Oct. 8, 1902.

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, President of the U. S.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:—Hon. Carroll D. Wright has no doubt, reported to you the delivery of your message to me last Monday and my statement to him that I should take your suggestion under advisement, although I did not look upon it with favor.

"Since that time I have consulted with our district presidents who concur fully in my views.

"We desire to assure you again that we feel deeply th responsibility of our posistion and the gravity of the situation and it would give us great pleasure to take any action which would bring this coal strike to an end in a manner that would safe guard the interest of our constitutents.

"In proposing that there be an immediate resumption of coal mining upon the conditions we suggested in the conference at the White House, we believed that we had gone more than half way and had met your wishes.

"It is unnecessary in this letter to refer to the malicious assault made upon us in the response of the coal operators.

"We feel confident that you must have been impressed with the fairness of our proposition and the insincerity of those who maligned us.

"Having in mind our experiences with the coal operators in the past we have no reason to feel any degree of confidence in their willingness to do us justice in the future and inasmuch as they have refused to accept the decision of a tribunal selected by you and inasmuch as there is no law through which you could enforce the findings of the commission you suggest we respectfully decline to advise our people to return to work simply upon the hope that the coal operators might be induced or forced to comply with recommendations of your commission.

"As stated above, we believe that we went more than half way in our proposal at Washington, and we do not feel that we should be asked to make further sacrifice.

"We appreciate your solcitude for the people of the country who are now and will be subject to great suffering and inconvenience by a prolongation of the coal strike and we feel that the onus of this terrible state of affairs should be placed upon the side which has refused to defer to fair and impartial investigation.

"I am, respectfully,
JOHN MITCHELL,
President U. M. W. of A."

Washington, Oct. 9.—The business session of the G. A. R. opened this morning. General Torrence devoted most of his address to pensions. He said there are 200,000 surviving union soldiers whose names do not and never have appeared on the pension rolls. Number of deaths during the year 8,299.

General Torrence expressed his regret that Congress had again failed to grant the request of the G. A. R for special legislation favoring preference of veterans in the public service. The rest of the day was devoted largely to reading of reports.

PRICE IN BREAD

Raised Owing to Cost of Coal—New York People Indignant at the Advance.

Now York, Oct. 9—The price of rye bread in the lower east side bakery shops has been raised much to the indignation of the people who held meetings in the street as they heard what had happened Seven cent loaves were up to 8 cents; 11 cent loaves to 12, and the 12 cent ones to 14 cents. There was no increase in the price of white bread but when some east siders went to buy the white bread they found that the loaves were very much smaller than usual.

In answer to protests the bakers said that the high price they were obliged to pay for coal made it necessary for them to charge more for bread. At one time it looked as though there might be a repetition of last spring's riot over meat, but the police broke up the little knots of indignant men and women as fast as they gathered.

SECRETARY SHAW IS TO QUIT SOON.

Boston, Oct. 9—The Advertiser announce another cabinet change. At the suggestion of high government officials Secretary Shaw will be retired from the Treasury portfolio. President Roosevelt when he appointed Secretary Shaw had no intention of making him a permanent fixture in the Treasury Department.

President Roosevelt tried to get Governor Crane of Massachusetts to accept the portfolio when Gage was to quit, but the state affairs would not permit the governor to accept. Now he is ready, and as soon as the money market and reserve questions have been settled the change will be formally announced.

Governor Crane's term expires within a few weeks. Secretary Shaw has not been acceptable to many eastern bankers, who would much prefer Governor Crane. Secretary Shaw may remain in the cabinet however, in a new capacity.

DENIAL OF THE STORY.

Washington, Oct. 9—The report from Boston that Secretary of the Treasury Shaw intends to retire from the cabinet, was vigorously denied at the treasury this morning. The Secretary is now on a short speech making tour in New England. He is expected back on Monday and will then at once take up the work of preparing his annual report to congress.

TRUST ISSUE

Great Political Battle to be Fought On It In Iowa.

Winthrop, Ia., Oct. 9—Former Governor Horace Boies began his campaign for congress in the third district last night with a strong declaration of the position of the Democrats of the state on the trust issue. He emphasized his belief that circumstances had fixed the eyes of the whole nation on the contest in this district and declared hat within its borders is to be fought the first battle that is to determine for all time the fate of the trust as a business enterprise in the American industrial life.

SUICIDE

Took an Unusual Method of Shuffling Off—Drank Acid—Set Herself On Fire.

Lockport, N. Y., Oct 9—Mrs. Richards, wife of Wm. Richards, superintendent of the Lunurated Fibre Co., chose an unusual method of ending her life, which was made burdensome by nervous prostration.

A neighbor discovered smoke coming from the Richard's home. The door was broken in and men found Mrs. Richards locked in a closet. She was on fire. Before the flames were put out she was fatally burned. In the room was an empty carbolic acid bottle, from which it is believed Mrs. Richards drank before setting fire to herself.

INCREASE IN THE COST OF LIVING

Forty Per Cent. Higer Within the Past Five Years --Interesting Figures Presented Before the Board of Arbitration in Chicago--Shows That Wages Have Not Kept Up With the Prices of Provisions.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9.—The cost of living in the United States has increased 40 per cent in the last five years.

This is the conclusion reached by attorneys who are arguing the case for the Northside street car men before the Board of Arbitration, which is considering the new wage scale.

Evidence has been heard from butchers, bankers and representatives of other trades to the same general effect.

While the wages of the street car men have not been increased since 1886, wages in other lines have steadily risen.

A remarkable difference is shown by a comparison in the rise of wages and the increased prices of the necessities of life. Wages have not kept pace with the cost of living.

One person who seems to get the worst of the increase in provisions is the boarding house keeper. Statistics introduced in evidence show that the price of board has actually decreased. This may not be true of Chicago, but apparently this is the state of affairs in other places.

Following are some of the conclusions taken from the tables of the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics, published in 1902:

Since 1897 prices have varied as follows:

Wheat flour, for family use, increased 19.14 per cent.

Oolong tea increased 16.38 per cent.

Coffee of the green variety is one of the necessities that went down, the decrease being 29.49 per cent.

Granulated sugar is also 8.70 per cent less in price.

Common soap costs 33.58 per cent more, and starch 11.11 per cent.

A great increase is shown in the price of all meats.

Beef ranges from 9.08 to 35 per cent higher in value.

Fore quarters of muttons are 46.92 per cent more valuable than 5 years ago.

Fresh pork shows a 40 per cent gain and salted pork 3.08 per cent.

Sausages are up 15.97 per cent, and butter, lard, cheese, milk and potatoes show substantial rises in selling value.

While coal has been soaring, wool has come down from 1.92 to 3.55 per cent.

Rents show the greatest increase, varying from four-room tenements at 40.56 per cent rise to 66.21 per cent for six-room tenements.

Wage tables for workmen show the following raises in 28 years:

	Per Day.
Blacksmiths	$2 51 to $2 81
Boiler makers	2 70 to 2 90
Bricklayers	2 78 to 4 00
Carpenters	2 88 to 3 00
Iron molders	2 52 to 2 70
Machinists	2 69 to 2 80
Masons	2 74 to 4 60
Plumbers	2 59 to 3 75
Teamsters	1 74 to 2 00

From 1891 to 1898 there was a decline in wages of about 2 per cent, which since then have increased until the high figure is shown this year.

The arbitrators expected that their award would be made before this, but both sides are putting in a mass of evidence which will delay the decision until late next week.

The median age of the white population in the last census year was 23.4 and of the colored 19.7 years.

Leather is a prominent feature in the house-furnishing of today.

The Czar of Russia has established a 10-hour working day.

It is estimated that the bees of the United States have produced during the season just closed $7,000,000 worth of honey and wax.

Detached bits of human skin live two to ten days

Paris has 1,316 factories.

PROGRESS OF THE CODE

Conference Committee Working on Points of Difference in the Bills Passed by the Two Houses --Democratic Senators solidly Oppose the Police Bill.

Columbus, Oct. 9.—The two code bills, the one passed by the Senate and the one passed by the House, are now in the hands of the conference committee which was named late Tuesday afternoon by Speaker McKinnon and Lieutenant Governor Gordon. The conferees are as follows:

Senate—Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati; Warren G. Harding of Marion; Frank B. Archer of Belaire; Samuel L. Patterson of Waverly, and William S. Harris of Ashtabula.

House—A. G. Comings of Oberlin Ralph D. Cole of Findlay; U. G. Denman of Toledo; W. E. Guerin of Sandusky, and R. H. Sharp of Fairfield county. The latter is the only Democrat on the committee, but he has trained with the Republicans on so many different propositions that he will not feel lonely or lost.

It now devolves upon these ten men to bring order out of the confusion occasioned by the passage of two bills so widely at variance. The conference committee is considering the code section by section.

The Senate bill retains the governor's board plan, while the House bill provides for single-headed departments, the appointment of a state civil service commission, and includes a compulsory arbitration feature. The personnel of the committee leaves no doubt that the result of the committee's work will be the recommendation of the sliding board system, it being left to council to designate the number of members of which the board of public service shall consist. The Nash bill fixes the membership at three, but council will no doubt be allowed to increase this to five. The other points of greatest difference are on the merit system and the compulsory arbitration feature. It is not believed that the Senate members will agree to either of these reforms. However, Mr. Guerin, the putative author of all of these provisions, is a member of the committee and will make a mighty effort to save some of his work.

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS

Take a Strong Position Against the Police Court Bill.

Columbus, Oct. 9.—The Democratic members of the Senate are standing out against the passage of the police court feature of the code bill, and as it requires a two-thirds vote to pass it they have the power to defeat it. The position of the Democratic Senators is a strong one and practically places the Republicans in a hole.

The discussion over the police court bill in the senate Tuesday afternoon was the most sensational of the extraordinary session. It was not until after the Democrats had defeated the measure that the Republicans became riled. Senator Stillwell had explained the Democratic position by asserting that the only reason the police feature was eliminated from the code was to save the curative clause of the Cincinnati street railway franchise steal. He said that no harm could come by reason of the defeat of the police court bill for the reason that the mayor was given general police powers under a general statute, and the right to appoint a police judge.

The position of the Democratic Senators on the question is thus stated by Senator Royer:

"The Nash code as originally introduced in both branches of the general assembly contained many provisions which we believe to be wrong in principle and entirely different from what the best sense and judgment of the people of Ohio demand. We, the minority, believe its basic principle to be wholly wrong and at variance with the best thought of the day. In addition to this, the majority has, against the protest of the minority, injected into the code the iniquitous provisions of the fifty year franchise steal about which there was a public scandal in 1896, and about which there is now a most unfortunate scandal in the lower house of this general assembly.

"Believing that the code is wrong in its basic principle and believing that no Democrat can conscientiously support the curative act commonly known as the fifty-year franchise law, we the Democrats of the Senate feel that we owe it to ourselves, our constituents and the people of Ohio to oppose to the very last the whole scheme of code building as proposed by the Republican majority.

"The passage of the fifty-year franchise law in 1896 aroused such a strong sentiment of condemnation that the legislature, which convened in 1898 by a unanimous vote repealed the law, in the house on the very first day of the session and in the senate within a few days thereafter. Now after the expiration of six years the Republican majority undertakes to enact the infamy of '96 and, to this proposition, the Democratic minority will not only refuse to give its support but against it. We feel justified in taking almost any position.

"By the provisions of the Nash bill the laws creating police courts in Ohio are repealed. That bill passed the senate more than three days ago and it is now too late to consider the vote by which it was passed. It was passed by a strict party vote, the Republican majority voting for it and the Democratic minority voting against it. If, therefore, by passing the Nash bill, the municipalities of Ohio are left without police courts it is wholly the fault of the Republican majority and for it the minority is not in the least to blame.

"Had the majority shown any disposition to yield and exclude the provisions of the curative act, had they shown a willingness to accept our amendment providing for a righteous primary election law, we might now be willing to assist them, but as long as they refuse absolutely to yield one iota, we, the minority, shall refuse to extricate them from their dilemma."

It looks as though the Republicans might be driven to take out the repeals of the present police court laws now in the code bill in order to prevent chaos in regard to this matter.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Votes on Terms of Municipal Officers To Be Elected.

Columbus, Oct. 9—The joint conference of the house and senate committee today by a vote of 8 to 2 decided that all officers of municipalities be elected simultaneously for two years. Longworth and Denman, voted "No". They favored a longer term.

ALL IN THE PICTURE

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 9—Mrs. Carrie Nation has posed with the students for a number of snapshot photographs. Half a dozen adroit and ingenious youths obtained Mrs. Nation's consent to pose for a few flashlights. Mrs. Nation was asked to stand in the center of the room holding a glass of water while the students who had just signed the pledge, stood behind her.

The students standing just out of range of her vision told her to be sure to keep eyes fastened on the camera. As she looked in that direction, the students surreptitiously produced pipes, cigarettes and a whiskey bottle. They are all in the picture.

HANNA'S ANTI-TRUST TALK.

Only a False Pretense From the Former Trust Defender.

Senator Hanna has been frightened sufficiently to force him to change the attitude he has always maintained on the trust question, and now talks on the probability of Congress doing something against trusts. For the first time in his life Hanna comes out on the side of the striking miners, but it is evidently because of the great pressure of public sentiment in the present emergency. Hanna confesses that ninety per cent of the American people sympathize with the strikers, and it can be accepted as a fact that this is the reason for his present changed attitude, or profession, on the trust question.

The same issue is involved in the present anthracite coal strike as that which existed last year between the steel trust and the striking iron and steel workers, when Hanna and his party leaders were conspicuously silent. It was a fight between the trust and labor unionism then and it is a fight between the trust and labor unionism now. There is a difference only in conditions, and that has been forced to the front by the fact that the people are becoming great sufferers by the prospect of a coal famine at the approach of winter.

But precisely the same principle is at issue, and it is the same as that which has characterized all the contests in recent years between trusts, or organized capital, and organized labor. But Senator Hanna and all the leaders at the head of his party have either quietly or openly taken the side of the trusts and defended them and protected them in all these contests.

Senator Hanna professes to favor Congressional legislation against trusts now, but why has he been standing out all this time against any such action by Congress?

If Hanna had been as much in favor of legislating to curb the trusts as he has been to railroad his ship subsidy bill through Congress—which is distinctly a trust measure—there could be some faith imposed in the sincerity of his present profession.

But no reliance can be placed in any of the Republican anti-trust professions now. After the party has done all the mischief now in evidence by its well known policy of fostering and promoting trusts, for which the latter have paid millions of campaign money to keep the party in power, there is no hope for any anti-trust legislation from such a source. After election we will hear no more anti-trust talk from Senator Hanna or any of his class.

It is the high price of coal and the wide spread indignation it has created among a million or so of consumers who have votes at the coming election thatis frightening the Republican leaders who have for years been trust supporters and defenders. The people are realizing with great force and effect just what the Democrats have all along been preaching.

President Roosevelt wrote to John Mitchell, president of the miners' union, asking that the latter intercede to have the miners return to work on a promise that later on measures would be taken to arbitrate the differences between the operators and miners and thus settle the strike. But President Mitchell could not accept President Roosevelt's proposition. He knows very well that such a promise would have no chance of fulfillment, for it would be disregarded by the leaders of the party in power. The miners themselves, too, decline to accept the proposition, and know that their fight with the trust would be lost if they returned to work on any such a promise.

Our old friend, Chauncey Depew, Republican senator from New York, rises to remark that the trusts are good things and should be let alone. The only thing the matter with Senator Chauncey is that he is more candid than other Republican leaders. They all think that way—Chauncey talks his thoughts out in meetin. The scarcity and high price of coal is what is frightening the average Republican leader just now. The great mass of voters who are suffering from the trusts have a chance to smash them on election day, which is nearing at hand. All the Republican leaders would be talking just like Chauncey were it not for the emergency the coal strike has created.

Promise and Performance.

The Republican party promised, in its national platform of 1900, to "favor such legislation as will effectively restrain and prevent" the abuses of monopoly and the extortions of the trusts. Two sessions of congress both absolutely dominated by the Republican party, have been held since that promise was made, but not one line of legislation intended to "restrain and prevent" trust extortion has been written into the federal statutes. On the contrary, not the slightest effort has been made to enact such legislation. Meanwhile, to look no further than to the two facts which stare every householder in the face, the Beef Trust has raised the wholesale price of meat an average of 75 per cent above the price of 1896, and the Hard Coal Trust has caused prices of that article to be raised 100 and at some points 200 per cent without stirring the Republican administration to make one effective move under the laws which already exist. All this talk about settling the strike at the White House and elsewhere can do no permanent good. Existing laws against trusts should be enforced instead of injunctions against labor, and other laws should be on the statute books to deprive trusts of the power to crush labor. There can be no reliance placed in Republican anti-trust professions now. If it had any sincerity the Republican party would have done something the last three sessions of Congress. But the party owing its retention in power to immense sums of money put up by the trusts has done nothing and will do nothing against them.

BIGELOW AND BAKER

Will Speak in Newark on Monday Evening, October 20.

These two Democratic orators will address the people in Newark on Monday evening, October 20. The Rev. Mr. Bigelow is the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, and Hon. Charles Baker is one of the ablest speakers in Ohio. They deserve a crowded house when they come, for what they say will greatly interest the people in these times of trust greed and trust rule. Our people should see that the occasion is made a political gathering of far-reaching effect.

RICHEST ROYAL FAMILY.

Russian Reigning House Said to Have the Distinction.

The Russian reigning house has, it is said, greater wealth than that of any other royal family in the world. In the Rev. H. N. Hutchinson's "Living Rulers of Mankind" it is said that the minimum revenue the czar derives from the crown and state domains is estimated at $7,500,000 a year. More than forty members of the imperial family not in the direct line of succession draw revenues from landed estates set aside for that purpose by the Emperor Paul I. To these estates is given the name of the imperial appanages. They cover an area of 2,000,000 acres, larger than Scotland, and the total income derived from them is $10,000,000. Before the emancipation of the serfs 800,000 peasants were attached to these vast estates and were in a sense the property of their owners.

Another item of the vast wealth of the imperial family, we are further told, is the quantity of jewels its members possess.

The Russians love gems. Serfs have toiled to fashion these wondrous jewels; emirs and shahs, the vassals of the czar, have laid them at his feet. The English ambassador's daughter said, laughing, that when Alexander III. presented the various grand duchesses, ladies of the imperial family, with most costly jewels on the occasion of his coronation they thought nothing of the gifts, but tossed them carelessly in a drawer. To ladies so plentifully supplied with pearls and diamonds a fresh necklace or tiara was a thing of small account.

The Oldest Locomotive.

The London Engineer reports that the oldest locomotive in the world, one built by George Stephenson for the Hetton colliery, near Durham, in 1822, has just been retired from service. Stephenson had constructed his first locomotive, My Lord, for the Killingsworth colliery in 1814. The Hetton railway, laid out by Stephenson, was the longest railroad which had up to that time been constructed in that portion of the north of England. It was eight miles in length, extending from Hetton colliery, a few miles west of the city of Durham, to the shipping staithes on the river Wear at Sunderland, crossing in its course Warden Law, one of the highest hills in the county of Durham. The Hetton line was opened on Nov. 18, 1822, or nearly three years previous to "the first public railway," the Stockton and Darlington, and on this date five of Stephenson's locomotives were at work, the engine just retired after nearly eighty years of continuous service being one of them.

Growth From Sugar.

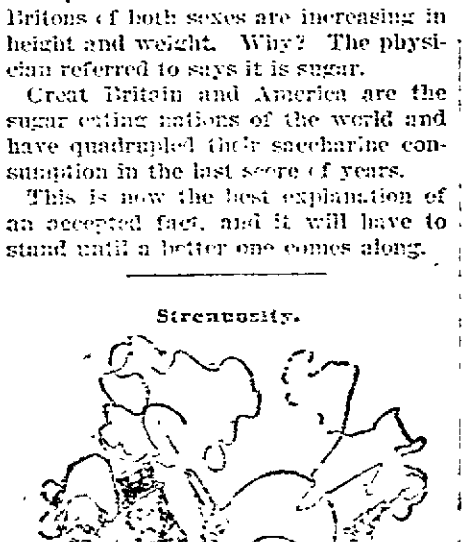

That English and American girls just reaching womanhood and the next generation in its early teens are unusually tall, standing a head or more above their mothers, has been remarked on over and over again and been made the subject of learned disquisitions, yet no generally accepted cause has been given for the fact up to this time.

Now comes a London physician of note and says that it is simply a case of lengthened sweetness. By "sweetness" in this particular case the nature of the young ladies is not referred to, but their diet. In fact, statistics of recent years show that Americans and Britons of both sexes are increasing in height and weight. Why? The physician referred to says it is sugar.

Great Britain and America are the sugar eating nations of the world and have quadrupled their saccharine consumption in the last score of years.

This is now the best explanation of an accepted fact, and it will have to stand until a better one comes along.

Strenuosity.

Native—Oh, no! We don't object to that sort of thing. It makes business good.

HOSTER'S HALF AND HALF.

SHE WANTED A CHANCE.

And the Bachelor Was Whipped Into Line In Short Order.

It was evident that the handsome widow's pretty daughter meant business when she entered the office of the old bachelor. She walked straight up to his desk and said in a businesslike way that she wanted a few minutes' private conversation with him.

"With pleasure," he replied, getting up, closing the door and offering her a chair. "What is the nature of your business?"

"Well," she returned, with the businesslike air that the girl of today seems to acquire with the rest of her education, "to come right down to facts, I've noticed you hanging round the house a good deal lately."

The old bachelor was startled.

"I—why, I"— he began.

"Oh, I suppose you think it's none of my business," she interrupted, "but that's where you make your mistake. I didn't spend three years in a boarding school for nothing. I know what I'm about, and I know that if I am going to get married now is the haymaking time, as one might say."

"But I never had any thought of"—

"Getting me?" put in the pretty daughter, putting the finish to his sentence in the form of an inquiry. "Well, I should hope not. If I couldn't do better than that at my age, I wouldn't be trying to hurry things along. I know who you're after. You're after my mother—that is, you're after her in an easy going, half hearted sort of way, but you seem to forget that by hanging off this way you are hurting my chances."

"Why, I don't see"—

"That's because you're a bachelor and never have had a woman to sharpen up your wits. She's just young enough and handsome enough, as widows go, so that she won't give me any kind of a chance as long as she's in the field. She appropriates everybody to herself, and I just have to sit in the background and do nothing while valuable time is slipping away. Now, if you want her go in and get her and take her away, and if you don't say so and stand aside, so that I can run in a melody with more gumption and get her taken care of in that way. It isn't fair to me to tie things up this way, and I don't propose to stand it. You can either put on your hat now and go up to see her or declare yourself out of the running, for I'm going to make a chance for myself in the matrimonial market, even if I have to kidnap her and marry her to some one by force to do it."

Without a word the bachelor put on his hat and went out. If he could do a good turn for the widow, the daughter and himself all at one time he felt that he ought not to delay action. And he didn't.—Chicago Post.

Inherited.

The artist was painting the portrait of the daughter of the coal baron.

In her ball gown she was an inspiring study indeed.

"How do you like my arms?" she asked, with that true naivete which comes with great wealth.

"You have a divine right," he asserted.

"Yes," she smiled. "I inherit that from papa."—Baltimore American.

The Fatal Step.

"Yes," said Dauble; "one moment's delay undoubtedly saved the would be suicide's life."

"And what," asked Bauble, "was the reason for the delay?"

"He hadn't decided whether to take carbolic acid or buy an automobile."—Baltimore News.

The Boy's Future Foretold.

"This boy," said the nurse, who, unknown to the mother, had gone out and consulted a fortune teller, "will set all the world by the ears."

And he did. The boy grew to manhood and invented the telephone.—Chicago Tribune.

Of the Platform Adopted at the Democratic State Convention.

In state convention assembled, we, the Democrats of Ohio, hereby acknowledge and declare our continued allegiance to the Democratic party of the nation and on national issues reaffirm and endorse the principles laid down in its last national platform adopted at Kansas City, and which was fully and ably represented in the presidential campaign of 1900 by William Jennings Bryan. Regarding those principles as opposed to imperialism and colonialism, as opposed to government by injunction, as opposed to trusts and trust-fostering tariffs, as opposed to financial monopoly and as opposed to all other legalized monopolies and privileges, we condemn every effort to repudiate or ignore them.

In state and municipal affairs we pledge our party to a faithful application of those Democratic principles, to the end that the burdens of taxation may be equalized and home rule and local self-government be established and preserved.

REPUBLICANS ARRAIGNED.

Under the long continued control of the Republican party in this state, monopoly has been fostered and protected; the farmer and the small home owners have been burdened with excessive taxes that the beneficiaris and favorites of that party might be permitted to escape their just share of the public burdens; our public institutions have been wastefully and inefficiently managed and in them scandalous and cruel wrongs have been practiced upon the defenseless wards of the state; the farmers and small shippers continue to suffer from unjust discrimination at the hands of unregulated monopoly; the fine system of municipal government has been wrecked and the credit of cities destroyed, thereby producing a spirit of insecurity and unrest in all public affairs. The people can no longer trust the administration of their affairs to a party thus recklessly devoted to interests adverse to the public welfare. As a more specific statement of our principles upon these and other public question we declare:

TAXABLE PROPERTY.

1. That all taxable property should be appraised by assessing boards which should be in session for at least a part of each year and whose proceedings and deliberations should be open to the public; that power be given to employ a representative to present the interests of the public in hearings before these boards and that in making assessments all property should be appraised at not less than its saleable value.

2. That the present laws for assessing the property of steam railroads and other public service corporations should be so changed as to compel the assessment of those properties at not less than their saleable value as going concerns and to prevent their evasion of just taxation.

CLASSIFICATION.

3. That to prevent evasion of state taxes by discriminating valuations, a separation of the sources of state and local revenues should be made. And to that end, we heartily endorse the constitutional amendment now pending before the people and to be voted on next year, which will permit classifications of taxable property.

4. That all public service corporations should be required by law to make sworn public reports and that the power of visitation and examination over such corporations should be given to the proper auditing officers to the end that the true value of the privileges had by such corporations may be made plain to the people.

FREE PASSES.

5. That the acceptance of free passes or other favors from railroads by public officers or employes should be adequate ground for their removal from office.

6. That the denial of the right of free speech and peaceable persuasion in times of labor disturbances is a denial of the right of free speech, and that government by injunction if persisted in, will wreck the liberties of the people.

MUNICIPAL CODE.

7. That we demand the enactment of a code which provides absolute home rule for municipalities which shall include the right to establish the merit system with civil service under which that system, as now in use in fire and police departments may be strengthened and perfected and be extended to other municipal departments particularly to water and lighting plants now operated by municipalities and to street car and all public service plants that may hereafter be established under municipal ownership and operation.

HANNA, COX AND FORAKER.

8. That we condemn the vicious and corrupt bargain between the boss of Cincinnati and Ohio's United States Senators to force through the legislature a code that will foist upon the municipalities of Ohio Cincinnati's form of government in order that the power of its boss may be preserved on one hand and on the other hand will perpetuate existing street railway franchises which Ohio's United States Senators represent.

9. That the municipal code should protect the public against all clauses which may be clandestinely placed therein in the special interest of public service monopolies by requiring that all ordinances granting, renewing, extending or modifying franchises shall be inoperative until confirmed by a majority vote of the people of the municipality, and we are unalterably opposed to the granting of any perpetual franchises.

SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

10. That until United States senators are required by amendment to the federal constitution to be elected by popular vote nominations of candidates for United States senator should be made by state conventions. And we hereby direct that in the official call for the next Democratic state convention of Ohio there be embodied a clause providing for the nomination at that convention of Democratic candidate for United States senator and a clause providing for action by said convention, upon all amendments to the state constitution then pending before the people.

Upon these principles of home rule, and just taxation, and to the accomplishment of these purposes in municipal and state affairs, we invite the co-operation of all citizens of Ohio, regardless of their party affiliations on national questions, hereby solemnly pledging our candidates to the faithful observance of this declaration both in letter and spirit.

DAN PATCH FAILS.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 9.—On a track between two and three seconds slow, Dan Patch went an exhibition mile over the four cornered course, Wednesday afternoon in 2.01 flat. The track had not had time to dry thoroughly after recent heavy rains, and the hoofs of the pacer sank into the clay an inch and a half in many places. Driver McHenry said he was well pleased with the mile, which he considered the best ever made by the pacer. The time by quarters was: 30, 30 1-4, 30 and 30 3-4. Mile 2:01. The weather was ideal and with a good track there is little doubt that a new pacing record would have been established.

WEDNESDAY'S FOOTBALL RESULTS.

The result of the football games played Wednesday, were in many cases surprises for winners and in others for losers. The greatest, probably, was the score 6 to 0 in the Harvard-Amhert game. Yale beat Amhert 23 to 0 last Saturday, while the Crimson could only make one touchdown against the same team.

Haverford scored on Pennsylvania by kicking a goal from field, while Michigan ran up the phenominal score of 119 to 0 on Michigan Agricultural college.

Michigan has undoubtedly the fastest scoring team in the world, and the Ann Arbor boys play Yosts' "hurry up" formations like clock work. It requires a fast team to take the ball, line up and score 119 points, even if they have no opponents in two 20 minute halves. This is an average of three points a minute. They have now scored 88 against Albion, 48 against Case and 119 against Michigan Agricultural, or a total of 255 in three games. Their total for the season of 1901 was 550, which broke all records. The Michigan goal line was not crossed last season, and only once so far this season, by Case last Saturday. In the light of the play of Yost's team, and without detracting from the merit of Davidson's run Saturday, for Case's touch-down, it must be said that this score was in the nature of a fluke. Two weeks from next Saturday O. S. U. plays Michigan at Ann Arbor, and a number of Newark people will attend the game. In view of this fact, it will be interesting to know that Coach Perry Hale is working hard with the O. S. U. squad and slow but very sure improvement is being noticed.

The results of games played Wednesday are as follows:

Yale 33, Wesleyan 0.
Harvard 6, Amherst 0.
Pennsylvania 18, Haverford 5.
Columbia 45, Fordham 0.
Michigan 119, Michigan Agriculture College 0.

Captain Harold Weekes, the sensational Columbia half-back on Wednesday skirted Fordham's ends for long runs for a touch-down, six times.

BOB FITZSIMMON IS 39.

New York, Oct. 9.—That much disputed question, the age of "Bob" Fitzsimmons the gamest prize-fighter who ever dealt an upper cut, has at last been decided.

He is 39 years old.

His age has for years been a matter of dispute, but "parson" Davies has settled the matter.

While in London the "Parson" secured a copy of the famous fighter's birth certificate. The document shows that Robert J. Fitzsimmons was born at Holston, May 26, 1863, and is therefore this side of forty.

IN MEMORIAM.

At a regular meeting of Newark Lodge Number 391, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased the Grand Exalted Ruler of the Universe, to take from us and his loved ones, to the higher and better life, our beloved brother and associate, William Bell, Jr., a true Elk, therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to that Divine Will that doeth all things well, yet, in the death of Brother Bell, we feel that our lodge has lost one of its best and most honored members; his family a model husband and father; and society a useful and illustrious citizen.

Resolved, That we extend our profoundest sympathy to the family of our deceased Brother; and while we cannot now solve this, the darkest and saddest of all life's mysteries, yet we can wait and trust and hope for that unending reunion, beyond the grave, where all life's tears are wiped away.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT.

Whereas Almighty God in his infinite power has visited our council and taken from us our esteemed and beloved friend, Addie Weaver on Sept. 29th 1902.

Whereas we do not question the wisdom of God, in thus visiting our council and the ones who were dearest and nearest to the deceased friend. With this affliction we bow in humble submission to him, who knows us as we are, therefore be it,

Resolved, That by the death o Addie Weaver the Banner Council of the American Protective Union has sustained the loss of a good and worthy member and her family, a loving wife and mother, and the community a quiet, peaceable and noble woman, which is the highest, noblest work of God; therefore be it,

Resolved, That the council tender its most sincere and fraternal sympathy to the bereaved family and friends of the deceased, and as fraternal friends we would commend them to God, who doeth all things well; be it further,

Resolved, That as a token of respect the charter of our council be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days; and be it further,

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the family of the deceased friend, and be spread upon the minutes of the council and a copy be sent to the daily papers for publication.

The parties are neighbors on Adolph avenue, an aristocratic thoroughfare. Wallace is with the Central Union Telephone Company, and has been for years. DEATH

Of Mr. David White at the Baltimore and Ohio Shops on Wednesday Evening.

Mr. Davis White, one of the oldest and best known residents of Newark, died very suddenly on Wednesday evening at the B. O. shops. He had apparently been in the enjoyment of his usual good health, and had worked all day without complaining. Shortly after 4 o'clock he went out to a water closet and not returning an investigation was made, when he was found in the closet dead. When found he was kneeling on one knee, looking upwards and death, which was probably caused by heart disease, was apparently very sudden.

Bowers & Bradley, the undertakers, were immediately notified, and the remains were taken in charge by them and prepared for interment, after which they were taken to the home 142 South Cedar street.

The deceased was born in France on January 19, 1836, and was therefore in the sixty-seventh year of his age. When about ten years old he came to the United States, and settled in Louisiana, where he remained until the breaking out of the war of the rebellion, when he enlisted in the Union army, serving during the entire war, although twice wounded. At the conclusion of the war he came north and for some time made his home in Columbus, when he went to Delaware, where he remained for a time when he came to Newark, where he has resided continuously ever since, a period of over thirty years. He had been an employe of the B. & O. railroad company, and had worked as a laborer in the shops at this point ever since they were built.

The deseased leaves a widow and four step-children three girls and one boy, besides an adopted daughter, Miss Emma Wehrle, to mourn his death. He had always been a faithful and consistent member of the Catholic church, and the funeral will probably take place from the St. Francis de Sales church tomorrow morning. The bereaved members of the family have the sympathy of all their friends in their great sorrow.

REUNION

THE GALLANT SEVENTY-SIXTH O. V. I.

For the Twenty-fourth Time Hold Their Annual Meeting of Survivors.

The 24th annual reunion of the survivors of the 76th regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry, was held in the Memorial Hall, the day's exercises opening at 10 o'clock this morning.

This is the largest reunion ever held by the regiment, about 90 of the survivors being present. The "boys of '61," the grizzled veterans of 1902, met and renewed acquaintances, exchanged reminiscences, and anecdotes and for the day were happy in the social intercourse incident to the reunion.

The same esprit de corps that made the gallant 76th one of the best regiments of Ohio during the civil war, is present today. Forty years ago, this spirit inspired to deeds of martial valor; today it lends its inspiration to promote a closer binding together of comrades in arms, friends and fellow citizens.

At the business meeting this morning the following officers were elected.

President—David Davis, of Conesville

Vice President—J. D. Rodepach, McKean township.

Treasurer—John Hiser, Newark.

Conesville, Coshocton county, was decided upon as the next place of meeting.

The retiring officers were, President Col. C. H. Kibler, Newark, Vice President, David Davis, Conesville; Secretary Samuel Hupp, Newark, Treasurer John Hiser, Newark.

The minutes of the last meeting in Newark were read by Secretary Hupp, and Treasurer Hiser made his annual report which was received and placed on file.

After the payment of dues, the members of the association sat down to an elegant dinner served in the hall by the Woman's Relief Corps.

The new president David Davis, is a resident of Conesville, about 6 miles west of Coshocton. He was a member of Col. Kibler's company D, and served with the regiment from the beginning to the close of its career. Mr. Davis is a coal operator, and owns the Davis mines near Conesville. He has been prominetly identified with the Memorial Association of the regiment since its organization, 24 years ago. His election to the presidency is an honor worthy bestowed. The other officers are Licking county men and need no sketch of their lives which are known by every one in the county.

Two interesting and interested visitors to this reunion are William S. Gale, of Garden City, Kansas, and S. D Davis who is connected with the Nebraska Adjutant General's office.

Both are old members of the regiment, but this is Mr. Davis' first reunion with his comrades.

The Seventy-sixth regiment was organized at Camp Sherman, O., from October 5, 1861, to February 3, 1862, for three years. It was mustered into the service on February 6, 1862, at Camp Sherman, Newark, O., by Col. Charles R. Woods and was mustered out July 15, 1865, at Louisville, Ky. by William L. Alexander, Captain 39th Iowa Volunteer Infantry, and A. C. M. 1st Division, 15th Army Corps. Only a partial list of the battles, in which this regiment bore an honorable part, has been published by the War Department, but the following list has been compiled, after careful research:

INSTANLY KILLED

DUDLEY DEBOLT, WELL KNOWN B. & O. FIREMAN

Meets Death at Pleasant Valley, on Thursday Morning by Being Struck by Fast Train.

Newark, O., Oct. 9—A schocking and terrible accident occurred this morning about 9:30 o'clock at Pleasant Valley, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, sixteen and a half miles east of the city, whereby Dudley A. Debolt, a well know B. & O. fireman was instantly killed.

The deceased, who had been in the employ of the company as a fireman since May 9, 1902, was on a west bound. He got off his engine and at Pleasant Valley for first No. 7 west bound. He had got off his engine and was sitting on the cross ties with his head in his hands, his elbows resting on his knees, and was apparently sleeping, when engine 1344, Engineer Richard Mercer, of train No. 7 struck him. Engineer Mercer blew the station signal and also blew signals for the train on the siding, but failed to see DeBolt sitting on the track, as he was on the opposite side. When the engine struck him he was knocked between the tracks, and a deep gash was cut in his head from which the brains protruded. His body was brought to Newark on second No. 7, which was following immediately behind the first section and turned over to Undertakers Bowers & Bradley for interment.

The deceased was a young man who was well thought of by the officials of the railway company, and his death has been a shock to his numerous friends, by whom he was highly esteemed. He leaves a young wife and two small children, who reside at 126 Vail street, this city. They have the sympathy of the entire community in their great affliction. At this writing it is not known when the funeral will take place.

BIG DEAL

REAL ESTATE COMPANY BUYS OLD SMYTHE PROPERTY

And Will Begin Next Monday to Erect a Three Story Pressed Brick Flat Building.

The Newark Real Estate and Improvement company, 14 North Park Place, which has done much towards the development of the north and west sides of the city in the past two years, the improvements being especially noticeable in the north end where scores of first class dwellings have been erected, today through its president, Mr. Edward Crayton, announces the most important real estate transaction of the year.

The real estate company, through its attorney, Mr. Carl Norpell, has just purchased the Benjamin Franklin property at corner of North Fourth and Church streets, and will proceed immediately with the erection of a $40,000 three story flat building, to be followed in the spring by the construction of another three story structure adjoining on the east.

The property just purchased consists of the corner lot 100 by 80 feet, extending from Fourth street east to H. J. Hoover's bowling alley building, and the lot just east of the bowling alley 60 by 100 feet. The company also has an option on the piece 20 by 100 feet owned by the Jones Brothers just east of this 60 foot lot, extending to the alley.

In talking of the purchase this morning President Crayton said that his company had thus far been engaged almost exclusively in handling residence property but that the demand for business rooms and centrally located flats had induced the company to undertake the present project.

Architect Mills of Columbus, has just finished the plans and specifications for a fine three story pressed brick building to be erected on the corner lot 100 by 80 feet and today Mr. Mills and Mr. E. T. Rugg, a member of the company, are in Cleveland buying iron for the new building, the construction of which will commence next Monday. Vice President Warren S. Weiant is also in Shawnee arranging for the purchase of bricks for the new structure. The new building will have two store rooms facing Fourth street and four fronting on Church street with finely appointed flats on the second and third floors.

Mr. Harry J. Hoover, who owns the bowling alley property, has consolidated his interests with the real estate company and will at the same time the new block goes up, add a second and third story to this building and it will be converted into two business rooms on the ground floor with a modern dancing hall with all modern improvements above.

The erection of this block will keep the real estate company busy this fall but as soon as spring opens the work will proceed so that within a few months the half square on Church street between Third and Fourth will be adorned with one of the handsomest business blocks in the city.

The admirable way in which the real estate company handled its north end property, transforming an undeveloped tract of land into beautiful residence property, afterwards building a number of fine residences, is evidence in itself that the down-town proposition will be well handled.

PROF. CHENG, CHINESE SCHOLAR LECTURES TONIGHT

Method of Reserving Seats for Entertainment Course—Mendelssohn Quartette at Taylor Hall.

It will be of unusual interest, especially to Christian people, to hear Prof. Wei Cheng, the distinguished Chinese scholar at Taylor Hall tonight. He represents that large and influential class in China, known as the Literati or Scholars, in whose hands, more than in the hands of any other class, lies the direction of the future cause of that great empire. As they go, so goes, very largely, the whole people. Having for the most part discarded Confuscionism, they are now without any religious belief. If they can be brought to believe in Christ, China will become a Christian nation. Prof. Cheng is thoroughly converted, and is using all his influence as scholar and teacher, to win his countrymen, the Literati, to Christianity and Progress.

Mr. George B. Hodge, Educational Secretary of the International Committee and H. A. Wilbur, State Secretary of Ohio, will also be here tonight and give short talks at the meeting. Taylor hall should be crowded to the doors to hear these gentlemen. The meeting is open to all. No admission.

We are asked to again call attention to the reserving of course tickets for the season at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow (Friday) evening. The board will open at 6 o'clock. In order to avoid confusion and crowding the seats will be reserved in Taylor hall. To every holder of a course ticket a number will be given, in the order in which he passes into Taylor Hall. At 6 o'clock the line will form in the same order in which the individuals entered the hall, and every one will have a fair chance for the selection of his seats.

No individual will be permitted to reserve more than 6 seats.

The lithographs announcing the Mendelssohn Quartette Company and Marguerite Smith, the child impersonator, the first number in the Y. M. C. A. Entertainment course, have appeared in many of the store windows. This entertainment comes next Wednesday evening, October 15, and promises to be a strong opening number for the excellent course, which the Association gives this year.

Saturday evening for the second Popular Saturday night, Supt. J. A. Shawan of Columbus, gives an illustrated talk on his travels in Europe. The admission to these entertainments is 10 cents.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Powers entertainment at the Auditorium, Oct. 14, Tuesday next. What the Maine Tribune says of Mr Powers:

The entertainment given at Burlew opera house by Prof. Powers yesterday afternoon and evening and under the auspices of the Public Schools, were attended by large audiences, many being turned away in the afternoon who could not obtain seats for the matinee. It was a great treat for the school children, who were chaperoned by Prof. Powers through the large cities of the east(New York and Boston). Mr. Powers, by word and picture, presented the most beautiful and historical features of these cities; and then in peculiar and striking contrast to these scenes of splendor, were shown the homes of the poverty-stricken millions who live in the perpetual night of want, and into whose dim abodes the goddess of fortune never stepped, and where the pure sunlight is never seen.

It was not only one of the most entertaining lectures that we have had in our city, for years, but one calculated to make our burdens easier to bear.

At the close of the lecture Mr. Powers gave a few readings from Paul Lawrence, Dunbar and Riley which were rendered with such polish and ease as would have filled the authors with envy could they have heard him.

We understand the schools realized a very handsome sum from these lectures. We are certain the citizens of Charleston will welcome the return of Mr. Powers.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Newark people should be evidence beyond dispute for every Newark reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors cheerfully given by them will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far-away places. Read the following:

Mrs. B. Donahue, 216 North Fifth street, says: "For quite a long time my kidneys were very much affected, and I had a heavy feeling across the lower part of my abdomen, which made me miserable. Pain across the small of my back was often so acute that I was hardly able to move around and a distressing and annoying urinary weakness accompanied it. A friend of mine, who, by using Doan's Kidney Pills had been cured of backache, advised me to try them: took the advice and obtained a box at Crayton's drug store. First the kidneys were stimulated to a healthy and natural action, then the backache and general feeling of depression left me."

REFORMING THE STAR

[Original.]

John Chrystie, president of the Star mine at Pine Hill, Nev., knew silver from copper if he did live in the east, and the general opinion was that he was level headed on all other matters as well. He not only shared in this opinion himself, but he knew that he was a philanthropist in his way and ready to do anything to make mankind better, except to increase the scale of wages at the Star mine. That couldn't be done without injustice to the stockholders, of whom he was one, but it was the duty of his fellow beings to be good on the wages of a dollar a day. The laborers at the mine, according to frequent reports from the resident superintendent, were not bubbling over with goodness. They swore and gambled and fought and went on strikes. So did the citizens of Pine Hill; likewise the cowboys who rode into Pine Hill to paint the town red.

The Star superintendent had included these facts in his reports, and there finally came a day when President Chrystie took a serious view of the social situation and mentally resolved that something ought to be done. Had it been a case of African heathen, missionaries and Bibles would have filled the bill, but the Star and Pine Hill were not Africa. Mr. Chrystie didn't care for the town, which was a mile from the mine, or for the cowboys who rode up from the plains five miles away, but he did sigh for some better influence among the shacks and shanties surrounding the Star. One day a bright thought came to him, and he rubbed his hands in glee. The remedy was woman. That's what ailed those 200 cussing miners—the lack of woman's influence.

Among his Sunday acquaintances, so to speak, was a young woman who had passed her thirtieth birthday without getting married because she was busy with a "mission." This was to lift up and better general humanity. She was interviewed and departed almost by first train, bearing a letter to the resident superintendent in which he was instructed to give her welcome and afford her every opportunity for fighting "cuss" words and whisky with sentiment. It is due him to report that, being a practical man, a driver and a profane official, he swore vigorously and wrote out his resignation and consigned Miss Amelia Wright to Jericho. It is also due him to add that, being a man of sense, he finally tore up his resignation and found as comfortable quarters as circumstances would permit for the woman with a mission.

Her advent at the Star created greater excitement than if all the hoisting machinery had suddenly fallen into the shaft and wages had been raised to $3 a day. At her home in the east even Miss Wright's best friends had criticised her nose, mouth, hands and feet and eyes, but on the slope of Wolf hill she at once became a goddess. Pine Hill was early on the ground to give its opinion. The whole town, Chinese laundrymen and all, marched over, with banners flying, to size up the new arrival, and the conclusion was that she was a "peach." News went down among the cowboys, and they came up by sixes and dozens to swing their hats and cheer and declare she was a "Jim Dandyess." Taken all around, it was a grand welcome, and it seemed to Miss Wright as if the soil was ready and waiting for her missionary work. On the fourth morning when the night shift came up not a man of the day shift would go down. They were cutting and combing their hair, washing their red shirts and blacking their red boots, and as one of them put it to the superintendent:

"We've got a lady in camp, and dash our eyes if we don't show her that we are gentlemen and know how to behave!"

They called upon Miss Wright one after the other to be introduced, and most of them promptly proposed for her hand. When gently refused, they assured her that they stood ready to break the lucky fellow's neck. Despite the protests and entreaties of the superintendent the men persisted in making a holiday of it, and there was no room to doubt that reform had begun.

The Pine Hillers, however, returned home in disgruntled mood. They recognized the fact that they were a bad lot and in need of repairs, and if there was any reform going on they wanted to be counted in. It would be a blur on the escutcheon of Pine Hill to play second fiddle to the Star mine. At an early morning hour there was another general movement toward the mine, and on this occasion every man had his gun and a determination to conquer or die. A demand was made upon the Star for its goddess that she might spread her tender influence over the shacks and shanties of the town on the crest of the hill. Then followed a fight that lasted for two days and caused a new graveyard to be surveyed and opened. Everybody on either side was ready to die for the goddess, and a respectable number of them were duly accommodated.

The Pine Hillers were at length driven back, with their hopes of reform rudely shattered, and the Star folks were binding up their wounds and singing paeans of victory when the cowboys came swooping down. They were sighing for sentiment and woman's influence. They rode over the miners and captured their goddess and bore her away. Two hours later they bundled her aboard a freight train on the S. P. road, and their leader, lifting his sombrero, explained:

"As we have no grazing ground for a goddess out here, ma'am, we've got to let you go, but I'll be respectfully cussed and the other boys will be respectfully blowed if we propose to let any durned saloots up at the Star or Pine Hill get ahead of us on refinement." THOMAS WYNKOOP.

BLOOD WINE KILLS DISEASE GERMS

It is true that "Blood Wine" is a wonderful medicine. Wonderful, because of its great breadth of cures. "Blood Wine," soon to be America's most widely known and popular medicine, kills the germs of disease that are in the blood. All diseases that have their origin in the blood or that are spread by germs, come under the curative powers of this great French discovery. "Blood Wine" is the medicine for you to get today, take it now, before the diseases of winter weather are upon you; before you are in the grasp of rheumatism, grip, lung trouble, kidney disorder and many other diseases so common to the American people. "Blood Wine" cures

READ LIKE MIRACLES

Mrs. Irving Mack, of Cambridge, Mass., says:

"I had the grip, and it left me a perfect wreck. My appetite was all gone, my nerves were all unstrung. I was wasted to a skeleton. Everybody said to me, 'You look like a ghost.' I couldn't sleep. I struggled against my sufferings, despite their growing intensity, but I failed completely, and I made up my mind that unless I soon received help I must die. The medicines I took seemed to do me no good, and I was truly a pitiable object. I was white as a sheet and so weak I could hardly walk along the street without staggering. My friends were constantly telling me that I had consumption or some mysterious incurable disease. At length, through the blessing of Divine Providence, I heard of the discovery of a medicine which would do wonderful things. This medicine was 'Blood Wine.' I sent for some of it and began to take it, and the result was simply marvelous. As true as I live, that medicine alone entirely cured me and made me a well woman. Lots of my neighbors who know all about it will stand by me in everything I have said. My health now is excellent and I do my work with a light heart and a strong body."

CURES RHEUMATISM

Because it removes the poisons from the blood. It abstracts the acids, dissolves the crusts about the joints and stops the pain. Read the following from Mr. I. S. Talmadge of 78 Woodside St., Springfield, Mass.

"My son Elton had suffered for a long time with an aggravated case of rheumatism, which caused him most intense pain, and which daily grew worse in spite of careful medical treatment.

"Many remedies were suggested, and were given a careful trial, but without good result. A friend recommended 'Blood Wine,' and although our experience with other preparations had been such as to cause us to doubt whether it would benefit him or not, we were delighted to find that, after Elton had taken two bottles he showed signs of improvement; and now, after having taken several bottles more, he is well and strong again. I cannot say too much in favor of 'Blood Wine,' and heartily recommend it to all suffering from rheumatism."

CURED OF CONSUMPTION

"Last winter I caught a cold which settled on my lungs, and for weeks I was unable to get out of the house. As spring drew near, the cold wore off, but left me with a rasping cough, which caused me the greatest alarm. Nothing seemed to stop it; physicians told me that I had developed consumption, and that they could do little for me, except to make my life easier unless I should go to another climate. I was very weak, my skin feverish and my appetite absolutely gone. A friend advised me to try 'Blood Wine,' and from the very first it helped me. My strength came back slowly but surely. I began to enjoy my food. Life became worth living, and today I am absolutely well."

WAS ALMOST DEAD WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE

He also had liver complaint and was a total wreck. This was the condition of J. H. Sowles of Tiffin, Ohio, when he ran across "Blood Wine." He says

"I have been a sufferer from general debility, liver and kidney complaint, chills and fever, headache and lameness of the joints, cold hands and feet. I was a physical wreck; had been treated by some of as good doctors as could be found, and taken nearly all kinds of patent medicines, but it all availed nothing. I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to find a cure. This is a case of twenty years' standing. I got so far gone that I could not work more than six or eight hours per day, when I would become perfectly exhausted. I was recommended by Messrs. Clyne & Larey to try 'Blood Wine,' which I am glad to state has proved very satisfactory. I have gained strength, health, vigor, and am able to carry on my daily labor with the greatest ease. I would say that if this should reach the eyes of any sufferers from such complaints they should try 'Blood Wine,' which is a safe and a sure cure, full of toning value, without danger of disturbing the action of the heart or stomach."

FREE BLOOD TEST.

Administration of the Judicial Function.

Mankind Is Honored by a Just Judge. Wisdom of Tempering Justice With Mercy—Statesmen Who by Their Works Have Raised Enduring Monuments to Themselves—Why the Name of Jefferson Should Be Perpetuated—Naming Children For Living Men.

[Copyright, 1902, by Champ Clark.]

A just judge is an honor to the human race. An unjust judge is a scourge to his kind. Of all the Englishmen that ever lived with whose names history concerns herself Jeffreys, the wicked and brutal judge, is the most thoroughly detested.

Justice tempered with mercy is the ideal administration of the judicial function. It appeals to the heart.

Judge Rogers of the United States court for the western district of Arkansas served in congress many years, where he built up a splendid reputation as a statesman, patriot and filibuster. Indeed, he fairly rivaled "Buck" Kilgore of Texas in fertility of resources and in audacity of execution when it came to harassing Speaker Thomas Brackett Reed with filibustering tactics. It is rather a striking coincidence that those two brilliant and dashing parliamentary guerrilla chieftains should graduate out of congress on to the federal bench, but such is the truth of history. His honor Constantine Buckley Kilgore is in his grave. Let us hope that "after life's fitful fever he sleeps well." Judge Rogers has not only had a flourishing city named for him—an everlasting monument—but, in prize ring parlance, he appears to be in "the pink of condition," both mentally and physically.

Humane Act of a Judge.

Not long since while lecturing at the Fort Smith Chautauqua I noticed in a local paper the following anecdote, which deserves the widest circulation:

"Yesterday Judge Rogers added another act to the register of his humanity, and, while such things with him are common, his last concession has excited more than ordinary favorable comment.

"While holding court in Texarkana he sentenced Ike Williams to the jail here for 60 days and imposed a fine of $100. Yesterday Colonel Du Val was handed a letter received by Williams from his brother saying that one of Ike's little ones was at the point of death. Colonel Du Val brought the matter to the attention of Judge Rogers, who held a short consultation with District Attorney Barnes, after which Williams was released unconditionally that he might go to the bed of his sick child.

"'It was an act of humanity for which Judge Rogers deserves great credit,' was the comment of Colonel Du Val as he related the story."

One of the most pleasant recollections of my long career as a prosecuting officer is that while I convicted 76 persons of felonies and nearly a thousand of misdemeanors I let off with a fine or jail sentence 26 young men charged with their first offense whom I could have sent to the penitentiary. Twenty-five of them are useful citizens. The twenty-sixth was incorrigible, and my successor in office sent him to state prison.

Enduring Monuments to Statesmen.

One of the finest and best known poems of Horace begins with the famous line

Exegi monumentum ære perennius, which being freely translated means, "I have reared for myself a monument more lasting than brass." His proud boast was true. He rendered his name immortal. Marble and bronze will perish at last. The most enduring monument a man can have in this country perhaps is to have a county or city or town named for him. Men may come and men may go, but these go on forever, as a rule increasing in importance with the lapse of years. We are much given to fixing the names of popular favorites upon counties, towns, townships and schoolhouses. Only one American worthy, Washington, has a state named for him. There was once an ephemeral state of Franklin where Tennessee now is. Unless it is literally true that republics are ungrateful, the state which is to be made one day out of the Indian Territory will be called Jefferson. He certainly deserves such a monument, and this is the last chance to give it to him, as the Indian Territory is the only remnant of the magnificent domain which he added to the Union and which made us a veritable world power. The poet says of Jefferson and the Louisiana territory:

His name is written on the mountain;
His memory sparkles o'er the fountain.
The meanest rill, the mightiest river,
Rolls mingling with his fame forever.

That is poetic license. The idea should be realized by naming a great state for him, the only redheaded president we ever had. Old John Adams spoke the simple truth of Jefferson when he said, "He is cunning with his pen." That was, however, only half the truth, for we may truly say of him what Frederick the Great said of his illustrious ancestor, the great elector, "This man did great things." Roscoe Conkling in nominating General Grant at Chicago for a third term voiced the same idea when he said of him, "His fame rests not alone upon things written and upon things spoken, but upon the arduous greatness of things done." That sentence likewise may be applied to Jefferson without exaggeration or bad taste.

But I did not start out to write an essay on Jefferson and the Louisiana purchase, however enthralling the theme. I am philosophizing about naming places for men.

A Mighty Name to Carry.

Of course our pioneer worthies had a vast advantage in this regard, for the all sufficient reason that the farther we go back toward the beginning of things the more places there were to be named. For this reason as well as for others the names of Washington, Jefferson and Jackson lead all the rest on the map of the United States. It is a curious fact that one may take a map and determine from the names of places and the dates of laying out towns and counties almost the exact period at which any American warrior or statesman was at the flood tide of his popularity. One might ascertain the same fact from the names of men save for the unfortunate fact that men die and usually their names perish with them. A hero suddenly impinges upon human vision, and an entire generation of helpless male infants are saddled with his name. One of the best friends I ever had was labeled Kosciusko Kossuth Harris, a most appalling case of historic alliteration. The father had to unite Poland and Hungary to accomplish the feat, but he did it. No mortal man could carry such a name through life, so the victim wisely relieved himself of his burden by curtailing that name to plain Kos Harris and as such has had great success at his profession of the law.

A Matter of Pronunciation.

King Solomon says, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." Of course he meant reputation, but his dictum would still be true even if he had meant merely a fitting name. It is a great piece of idiocy to name a child for a living man of distinction.

This long string of reflections on names was started in my mind by passing through the beautiful little city of Van Buren, in the county of Crawford, in the state of Arkansas. In passing it may be stated that for a long time nobody knew the real name of the state. Some pronounced it Ar-kans-as, others Arkansaw. At one time the two United States senators from the state differed as to its pronunciation. The vice president, being a kindly man, of great tact, consulted their tastes by always recognizing one as "the senator from Ar-kans-as" and the other as "the senator from Arkansaw." Finally the legislature took the matter of nomenclature in hand and by solemn statute decreed that the correct name of the state is Arkansaw.

I am not certain but what the Missouri legislature will have to do something of the sort. The dictionaries give it as "Miss-u-ry," but no genuine Missourian ever pronounces it that way. It is always "Miz-uh-rah" or "Miz-uh-ruh." Vox populi vox Dei. The people have as much right to make a dictionary as a government.

Political Revenge.

The city of Van Buren was of course named for Martin. He fared better at the hands of Arkansans than he did with Missourians. The latter in their love and admiration named two counties for him—one Van Buren, the other Kinderhook—but when he bolted in 1848 and headed a political side show whose effect was to defeat General Cass, the regular Democratic nominee, the ardent affections of the Missouri Democrats for Van turned to bitter loathing, and they wrathfully changed the name of Van Buren county to Cass and that of Kinderhook to Benton. The old proverb says, "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." That may or may not be true. At any rate, the scorn of Missouri Democrats is terrific. "Sweet is revenge," declares Byron. He ought to have known. Van Buren revenged himself on Cass, and the Missouri Democrats revenged themselves on Van.

Van Buren's Cruel Mot.

Martin Van Buren is an enigma of American history just as the Duke of Marlborough is an enigma of English history. Some one says of the duke, "He never fought a battle which he did not win, never besieged a city which he did not take, never made a movement which was not successful." The same may be said of Van Buren in politics until after his election to the presidency. The same fate has come to the great Englishman and the great American in this: Nobody has a kind word for either. Most assuredly they do not need the warning words of the Bible as to the danger of getting into the condition "when all men speak good of them."

Nor are the reasons far to seek of the woeful historic plight of the British soldier, the first captain of his age, and of the American president, the first diplomatist of his age, the well beloved of Andrew Jackson. Avarice, a vice of ignoble souls, a sordidness which has no parallel among men of brains, coupled with an astonishing lack of fidelity to any sovereign or to any cause, are the foul blots on the escutcheon of the hero of Ramellies, Malplaquet, Blenheim and Oudinarde, while Van Buren suffers from the contrast between himself and Jackson, from the ridicule heaped on him by the Whigs in the coonskin, log cabin, hard cider hysteria of 1840, which ended in his defeat, and most of all perhaps from his defection in 1848. By that caper he alienated the affections of the Democrats. Consequently there is no one interested in defending him in the forum of history or at the bar of posterity. He not only gave the coup de grace to his own fame, but he rendered impossible a great career to his son, "Prince John," one of the most brilliant of the children of men. A fine but cruel and unfilial mot is recorded of John. Once while president his father was chiding him for his wild ways. John retorted, "You think you are a great historic personage, but you will be remembered chiefly because you are the father of John Van Buren."

CHAMP CLARK.

SAYS DEAD MAY LIVE.

Amazing Claims of an Indiana Physician.

HE OFFERS PROOF OF HIS THEORY

"Volatile Magnetism" Is Held by Dr. C. W. Littlefield, Who Asserts Power to Restore Life, to Be the Secret of Animal Existence—Says He Resuscitated Drowned Boy.

"I can bring back the dead to life.

"I did bring back to life a boy who was pronounced dead by doctors and who in reality was dead.

"I have numberless times restored consciousness to dogs and cats after they had been dead two hours and after rigor mortis had set in."

Astonishing statements these, but they are made in all seriousness by Dr. C. W. Littlefield, a well known and reputable physician of Alexandria, Ind., says the Chicago Record-Herald. Dr. Littlefield makes these declarations:

First.—Life is not dependent upon organic function as a principle.

Second.—It may be infused into organic bodies even after the organs have ceased to perform their legitimate offices.

Third.—Where death has been due to causes which have not impaired or injured or destroyed tissue formation or torn down the structure of vital organs life may be recalled when it has become entirely extinct.

This is equivalent to saying "the dead can be brought to life." But as is obviously necessary, the doctor qualifies his assertion with the declaration that his methods of necessity are inoperative where death has been caused by physical damage, whether apparent or hidden, which admits of no natural repair. The physician asserts that the secret of life is volatile magnetism.

"Volatile magnetism" is a term the experimenter does not define, but it exists, he asserts, in the free atmosphere, is drawn into the body through the lungs, at once absorbed and held in bounds until chemical combination has occurred through the medium of mineral agents always present in normal animal tissue. When a person is dead, of course, respiration ceases, and the volatile magnetism cannot be drawn into the lungs.

How then can it be supplied? Therein lies the accomplishment of Dr. Littlefield. He has discovered a compound which, he declares, is an exact reproduction of conditions existent in the human body. This compound has common salt as its basic chemical. The salt is saturated with oleoresin and is allowed to stand exposed for several hours in an atmosphere of free ammonia. The product is reduced to a powder. It is this powder which, the doctor claims, brings back the dead to life.

To prove his theory the investigator has operated extensively on dogs, cats, flies and bees, and invariably he has been successful.

Within half a dozen minutes after the first signs of reviving have appeared the animal displays signs of a normal condition. Half an hour later, to all appearances, the subject is in quite as healthy a condition as before its life was taken.

A strange feature of the experiments thus far conducted is the fact that no animal yet resuscitated has appeared gratified at its awakening. Invariably the animal displays the most decided anger and resentment, and Dr. Littlefield bears many scars on his hands and face in testimony of this strange manifestation. Cats, especially, have evidenced their chagrin at the potency of the reviving powder, displaying more than dogs, rats, mice or monkeys a greater illness shortly after recovering. Eventually, as a rule, they develop symptoms due to the contact with the water and the effect upon their lungs. An application of the powder internally, however, relieves them almost immediately of all dangerous symptoms.

Upon only one occasion was the potency of Dr. Littlefield's theory tried upon a human being. This was several years ago, when his discovery had not been put to severe test. Upon this occasion a boy who had fallen into the water through the ice was given up as dead by physicians summoned to restore life by the usual artificial means. Dr. Littlefield, however, secured permission to make an attempt to resuscitate the lad, and taking the body to his laboratory, a mile away, immediately submitted it to the powder treatment. In fifteen minutes, together with a continuance of the other means of restoring life, the boy revived and evinced no unusually abnormal symptoms.

WILL LIVE WITH THE POOR.

Rich Bridal Couple Forego Society For Tenement District.

John M. Glenn, son of a rich philanthropist, and his bride, the daughter of J. Wilcox Brown, president of the Maryland Trust company, have returned from a honeymoon in Europe to take up their abode not in the fashionable section of Baltimore, but in the heart of the tenement district.

"We decided to move down here in order to be in closer touch with the people with whom we wish to work," Mr. Glenn explained the other day to a reporter of the New York World. "Many of them we have known for a long time and are very much attached to them. There is nothing in the rumor of our going in for social settlement work or of attempting any sort of organization. We [illegible] try to do what we can in a [illegible] way."

NEW TURBINE MOTOR.

Inventor Says It Can Drive Big Ships Fifty Knots an Hour.

Across the Atlantic in three days or less, a revolution of modern naval warfare and unheard of speed for the largest vessels afloat is what William Werner declares he has made possible by the invention of a new turbine motor. Fifty knots an hour as the minimum of speed for vessels like the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse is what Mr. Werner believes his invention will accomplish.

Mr. Werner lives in Brooklyn. He is a civil engineer and an inventor. He has a working model of his new invention that drives a small boat through the water at terrific speed and seems to bear out all that he claims for it. When seen at his home the other night by a New York Herald reporter, Mr. Werner explained that he had not applied for a patent for his device yet because he is under contract with a foreign government not to impart any information concerning his invention.

After having failed to interest American shipbuilders Mr. Werner says he sought assistance abroad to have his invention applied to some large steamship, which involved an expenditure beyond his means. The fact of his discovery having come to the knowledge of naval officials of a country which Mr. Werner refused to name, a confidential agent of that government was sent to Brooklyn to negotiate for the purchase of his secret.

Mr. Werner says that when his device is used steamship propellers will be reduced one-half in size, at the same time gaining enhanced power of propulsion. His invention, he says, has a capacity of 25,000 or 30,000 horsepower, and he is certain he can attain a speed of fifty knots an hour.

NEW DANCE FOR CANADIANS

"The Ottawa Skate" Is Dedicated to Lady Minto.

The Ottawa skate is the name of a new dance which has been dedicated to her excellency Lady Minto and taught during the last few days at Government House by Louis Hervy d'Egville, says a special dispatch from Ottawa, Ont., to the Chicago Tribune. The professor teaches the daughters of the Duchess of Connaught, Prince Edria of Battenberg, Prince Arthur of Connaught and families of the Duchess of Roxborough, Duchess of Portland, Lord Ampthill and Lord Dundonald. The Ottawa skate is in three-quarters time and is danced in couples by any number of dancers as follows: First step, jump slightly, knocking heels together and point right foot sideways; second, slide right foot sideways; third, draw left foot to right; fourth and fifth, stand on ball of right foot and swing or pivot one entire circle, with left foot extended in skating position behind; sixth, at the completion of the circle bring both feet close together.

All these movements fill up two bars, Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in the first bar and 4, 5 and 6 in the second. Make the movements to the left and repeat in both directions. After that hold partner by right hand and hop slightly forward on right foot, then slide left foot forward, bring right foot up to the left with a tap and repeat the same, starting with left foot. Now give the left hand and do the same. Each complete set of movements is thus performed four times. The dancers stand facing each other and move sideways. The pivot on the ball of the foot should be made gently, with a slight wave of the arm, taking care to bring the feet close together at the end of the turn.

MILLIONAIRE SHERIFFS.

Ten of Them Will Guard the Peace of a New York Suburb.

Ten millionaires, with night sticks in their right hands and 45 caliber army revolvers in their hip pockets, will hereafter guard the peace of Scarsdale, N. Y., in the night hours, says a special dispatch from New York to the Philadelphia Press. They were duly sworn in as deputy sheriffs the other day. Their business is to see that highwaymen and beggars get short shift in that much robbed town. Scarsdale, a suburb where wealthy New Yorkers live, has been hit in the past month. There have been highway robberies, postal thefts, a loot of the railway station and attempted murder of the station agent.

In response to a call there was a mass meeting of the residents a few nights ago. The village folk and New York summer residents combined to protect the town. The proposition to offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the malefactors who have disturbed the township for the past few weeks was carried by a unanimous vote. Then the ten richest men of Scarsdale were chosen as deputy sheriffs, and they accepted the places. Each night they will patrol the town streets.

China to Have a Church Organ.

The steamship Annam of the Messageries Maritimes left Marseilles a few days ago for China. Among the goods on board was an organ for the Catholic cathedral of Peking. This is the first musical instrument of its kind that has been imported into the Celestial empire, says the London Daily News, the Chinese government having hitherto prohibited organs in Chinese places of worship, just as the English government in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries (up to the revolution) prohibited bells in Protestant churches.

GENERAL BOOTH'S VISIT

Facts About the Salvation Army Founder's Work.

CONVERSIONS NUMBER THOUSANDS

During the Past Twenty Years the Venerable Teacher Has Personally Made Five Thousand Converts a Year—Praised by Rulers of Nations and Statesmen—O'Connor's Tribute.

General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, who recently reached New York from England for a five months' campaign in the United States and Canada, has been making converts during the last twenty years of his life at the rate of 5,000 a year. For the thirty-eight years prior to this period it has been calculated by leading Salvation Army authorities that the general by his personal efforts alone averaged 1,000 converts each year, making a total of 38,000. This added to the converts secured during the last twenty years gives a grand total of 138,000 converts to the general's personal credit.

Of course these figures in no sense cover the number of converts secured to and through the Salvation Army. In the last ten years alone the army has recorded 2,500,000 conversions throughout the world. In a sense it may be said with truth that all these are General Booth's converts, for they have had their religious feelings awakened and moved by the organization he started and has kept in an active state of warfare for nearly twoscore years.

When the general was last in this country—it was in 1898—hundreds of converts were secured by his sermons and addresses, and the Army in America is confident that its general's campaign this year will be attended with similar results. At his farewell meeting in Liverpool General Booth secured 340 converts, and this is taken as a good sign of what he will do in this country.

During his nearly sixty years of labor at the head of the Salvation Army and the Christian Mission, out of which it grew, General Booth has received warm words of commendation from the rulers and the mighty men of the earth. On this point the general says in a recent autobiography:

The Salvation Army has met with great opposition; it has also met with great encouragement. On the occasion of our last American anniversary President McKinley assured me that he fully realized the effective work being done on such a large scale by the Army, and he, therefore, sent us a few words of greeting and good cheer.

And our late beloved queen telegraphed to us a few years ago at our triennial meeting in the Crystal palace: "The queen wishes to express to all members of the Salvation Army now assembled for their triennial congress her heartfelt thanks for their touching message of loyal congratulations and earnest good wishes. Her majesty fully recognizes the great and varied works so courageously undertaken by the Army on behalf of many of their unhappy fellow creatures in different parts of her empire. The queen fervently trusts divine guidance and blessing may accompany all future efforts of the Army."

I must not omit to mention the equally kind encouragement we have received from the king of Sweden, her majesty the queen of Holland, the crown prince of Denmark and a number of prominent colonial officials in all parts of our empire.

Mr. Gladstone, too, was one of our fervent well wishers.

T. P. O'Connor, member of parliament and famous in the world of literature, recently wrote of General Booth:

"It is impossible to see General Booth for a moment and ever forget him, for he has one of the most striking faces I have ever seen. It is, as 'twere, drawn on granite by a pencil of steel. The rigidity, the clearness, the firmness of the lines, make it difficult to believe that it is living flesh and blood and not the hardness, the coldness and impenetrability of stone. The face is thin, long, hatchet shaped, and yet the lines are fine and even noble. The nose—more like the beak of an eagle than the nose of an ordinary man—juts out in a promontory. It is as large and commanding a nose as that of Wellington, but it is finer in cut and shape.

"Then there is the long, slightly shaggy beard, the fine, full head of hair, the high and prominent cheek bones, the mouth finely curved, regular, firm set. All produce the impression of a man with tremendous power of will, of command and of infectious enthusiasm. And the body, long, thin, without an ounce of superfluous flesh, almost gaunt, increases the impression of one of those beings whose energies are exhaustless because the splendid endurance of nature has never been dulled by the self indulgence of the ordinary man.

"The picture I have attempted to give suggests a greater severity of expression than would be accurate. That was not the impression made upon me. But, if I misjudge him not, there is much softness in this man's heart and temperament. Indeed if there had not been how could he have taken up that work which so many of the churches had neglected, the work of saving not the [illegible] the rugged, the hungry, the outcast, the convict, the [illegible]?

"NOTHING TO WEAR."

William Allen Butler's Death Recalls Story of Flora McFlimsey.

The recent death of William Allen Butler has revived interest in his first and most famous poem, "Nothing to Wear," which appeared anonymously in Harper's Weekly in 1857.

It was one of the most notable satires on New York society's extravagance. These verses, which were reproduced in Great Britain and translated into French and German, relate how Miss Flora McFlimsey spent most of her money and all of her time buying clothes and yet had "nothing to wear." Here is Miss McFlimsey's career:

Miss Flora McFlimsey of Madison square
Has made three separate journeys to Paris,
And her father assures me, each time she was there,
That she and her friend Mrs. Harris
(Not the lady whose name is so famous in history,
But plain Mrs. H., without romance or mystery)
Spent six consecutive weeks without stopping
In one continuous round of shopping—
Shopping alone and shopping together
At all hours of the day and in all sorts of weather,
For all manner of things that a woman can put
On the crown of her head or the sole of her foot,
Or wrap round her shoulders, or fit round her waist,
Or that can be sewed on, or pinned on, or laced,
Or tied on with a string, or stitched on with a bow,
In front or behind, above or below;
For bonnets, mantillas, capes, collars and shawls,
Dresses for breakfasts and dinners and balls,
Dresses to sit in and stand in and walk in,
Dresses to dance in and flirt in and talk in,
Dresses in which to do nothing at all,
Dresses for winter, spring, summer and fall.
* * * * * * *
And yet, though scarce three months have passed since the day
This merchandise went, on twelve carts, up Broadway,
This same Miss McFlimsey of Madison square,
The last time we met was in utter despair
Because she had nothing whatever to wear!

The day of the Stuckup's grand ball arrived, and Miss McFlimsey is in despair. "Why, Harry, mon cher," she says to her lover, "I should like above all things to go with you there, but really and truly—I've nothing to wear!"

He rashly suggests that she wear the gown she has on, whereupon Miss McFlimsey opens her batteries of scorn upon him:

"How absurd that any sane man should suppose
That a lady would go to a ball in the clothes,
No matter how fine, that she wears every day!"
So I ventured again, "Wear your crimson brocade"—
(Second turn up of nose)—"That's too dark by a shade."
"Your blue silk." "That's too heavy."
"Your pink." "That's too light."
"Wear tulle over satin." "I can't endure white."
"Your rose colored, then, the best of the batch."
"I haven't a thread of point lace to match."
"Your brown moire antique." "Yes, and look like a Quaker."
"The pearl colored." "I would, but that plaguy dressmaker
Has had it a week." "Then that exquisite lilac
In which you would melt the heart of a Shylock."
(Here the nose took again the same elevation).
"I wouldn't wear that for the whole of creation."
"Why not? It's my fancy. There's nothing could strike it
As more comme il faut." "Yes, but, dear me, that lean
Sophronia Stuckup has got one just like it,
And I won't appear dressed like a chit of sixteen."
"Then that splendid purple, that sweet Mazarine;
That superb point d'aiguille, that imperial green;
That zephyrlike tarletan, that rich grenadine"—
"Not one of all which is fit to be seen,"
Said the lady, becoming excited and flushed.
"Then wear," I exclaimed in a tone which quite crushed
Opposition, "that gorgeous toilet which you sported
In Paris last spring at the grand presentation,
When you quite turned the head of the head of the nation
And by all the grand court were so very much courted."
The end of the nose was portentously tipped up,
And both the bright eyes shot forth indignation
As she burst upon me with a fierce exclamation,
"I have worn it three times, at the least calculation,
And that and most of my dresses are ripped up!"
* * * * * * *
"I've told you and shown you I've nothing to wear,
And it's perfectly plain you not only don't care,
But you do not believe me"—(here the nose went still higher)—
"I suppose if you dared you would call me a liar.
Our engagement is ended, sir—yes, on the spot;
You're a brute and a monster, and I don't know what."
* * * * * * *

In similar strain the author then extends his lesson of "nothing to wear" to all of feminine Fifth avenue and Murray Hill. In those days, however, display in feminine finery in New York was comparatively simple judged by modern standards. Somebody might write a "Flora McFlimsey of [illegible]" and thus draw a striking contrast.—New York Times.

COMET

BEING STUDIED BY PRINCIPAL E. P. CHILDS

And the High School Astronomy Class—Its Location Tonight—Will Never Be Seen Again.

Professor E. P. Childs, principal of the High school and instructor of the astronomy class, assisted by Prof. R. O. Austin, also of the High school faculty, have as other astronomers, been greatly interested in the Perine comet which is now visible.

These geneltmen observed the celestial visitor through the High school telescope on Tuesday night, when it was in Cygnus, near Omicron and moving rapidly westward. It can be seen by the naked eye, to which it presents a nebulous appearance, and through the telescope it appears brighter, but with no particular shape.

The Perine comet is moving in a parabola at the rate of 8 degrees per day, and will never be seen again. It is a new comet. Wednesday night it was nearest the earth, 37,000,000 miles away, and by October 12, it will be near to Lyra and will be nearly invisible.

Tonight the comet may be seen between Alpha, the head star of Cygnus and Vega, in Lyra about 1-3 of the distance from teh former star. Vega is one of the bright first magnitude stars, and is nearly in the zenith, at the apex of an equilateral triangle.

Field glasses or opera glasses are used to better advantage in viewing the comet than the telescope.

Professor Childs had the astronomy class with him Wednesday night and besides the comet many other celestial objects were brought within the field of the telescope, through which were seen the bands and moons of Jupiter, the rings of Saturn, and some nebula.

The Pleiades were also viewed by the class.
